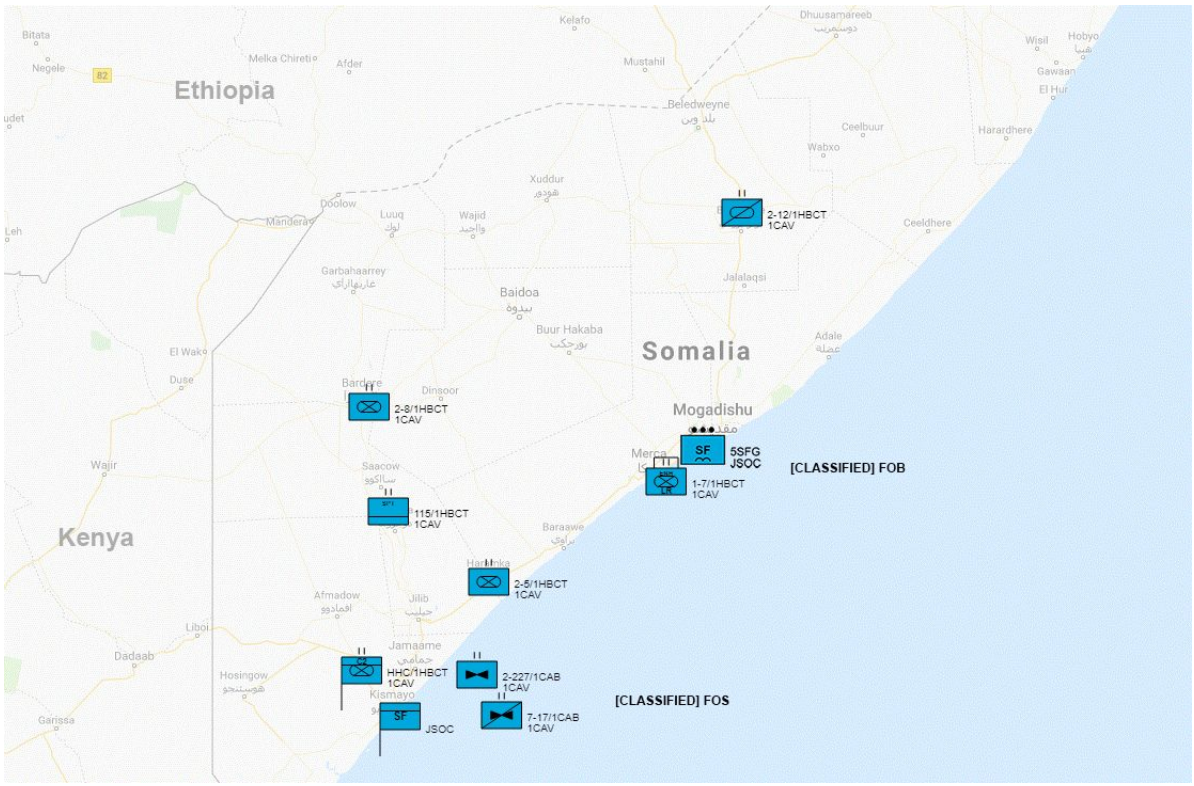
1. Overlay 1 - Deployment Plan



COMMAND RELATIONSHIPS.

Operation Juniper Spear (OJS) is a joint-campaign under the command of Combined Joint Task Force - Horn of Africa (CJTF-HOA), in cooperation with Somali National Security Forces (SNSF). The 1st Armored Combat Brigade, 1st Cavalry Division (1ABCT-1CAV) has been moved from III Corps to US Africa Command (US-AFRICOM), and subsequently under the command of CJTF-HOA for the purposes of this campaign. The strategic headquarters for the campaign is Camp Lemonnier, Djibouti, and the operational headquarters is a classified JSOC Forward Operating Site (FOS) in Kismayo. Given the nature and circumstances around the operation, no Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) or Private Voluntary Organizations (PVOs) are expected to be in theater, other then possible African Union Mission to Somalia

(AMISOM) personnel. Any NGO, PVO, or ANISOM personnel encountered will have their safety ensured, and moved out of theater to a designated safe zone.

1. SITUATION.

On December 18, 2017 an un-flagged container ship bound for Yemen was hijacked by Somali pirates. When the pirates who captured the vessel realized it's contents, they killed all crew aboard and sent a message directly to Ahmad Umar (Umar), leader of Al-Shabaab in Somalia. Upon receipt of the letter, Umar launched an ambitious plan to capture the port of Mogadishu, take control of the ship and its contents, then announce his intentions to the world.

Immediately after successfully launching a surprise attack on, and capturing, the Port of Mogadishu, the captured ship entered the port and was placed under the control of Umar. Before Somali National Security Forces (SNSF) could counter, Umar sent a videotaped message to Somali National Television. The video showed the contents of the ship; two short-range nuclear missiles. Sitting atop the missiles, Umar proclaimed an "intifada" calling upon all members of Al-Shabaab, Al-Qaeda, and ISIL in eastern Africa to surge upon Mogadishu and overthrow the Somali capital; threatening to detonate the devices if anyone attempts to intervene. The video was not aired, and immediately turned over to SNSF (CJTF-HOA/US-JSOC).

While the video did not air, word has spread to terrorist groups throughout the region. Within only a few weeks of the announcement, hundreds of militants have appeared in Mogadishu and taken over the city, including the Dananyo Army Camp and military academy. All Somali government and military personnel have either been captured, or pushed back to the south, while the Somali Army's 3rd Brigade has worked alongside US-JSOC personnel stationed at FOB Jazeerah (Mogadishu Airport) to maintain a green zone around and south of their position. JSOCs assessment is the FOB will not hold much longer, if the initiative is not gained.

a. Strategic Guidance.

Although the threat of Umar detonating the devices seemed likely at first, given his early success in assembling and garrisoning a large number of insurgents in Somalia, it is believed he will no longer be able to follow through on his threat. In response, the CJTF-HOA has requested the assistance of a Heavy Brigade Combat Team (HBCT) with re-taking Mogadishu, along with neutralizing Umar and the two nuclear warheads.

i. Strategic Direction.

The intent is to surround Mogadishu, then send in an enhanced Combined Arms Task Force to secure FOB Jazeerah; find and neutralize the WMDs; clear the city of insurgents; and assist in peacekeeping and stability operations.

ii. Strategic Objectives and Tasks Assigned to the Command.
(1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Cavalry Division)

1. Establish headquarters at FOS Kismayo.

2. Establish and hold blocking positions to the south, west, and north of Mogadishu; denying enemy movement in and out of the Operational Area (OA).

3. Dislodge and push all enemy forces out of OA.

4. Secure and fortify FOB Jazeerah.

5. Locate and neutralize the WMDs.

6. Locate and neutralize Umar.

b. Belligerent Data.
(Al-Shabaab)

i. Overview.

Harakat al-Shabaab al-Mujahideen, more commonly known as al-Shabaab, is a jihadist fundamentalist group based in East Africa. In 2012, it pledged allegiance to Al-Qaeda. Al-Shabaab's troop strength was estimated at 7,000 to 9,000 militants in 2014. As of 2015, the group had retreated from the major cities, controlling a few rural areas.

The group describes itself as waging jihad against "enemies of Islam", and is engaged in combat against the Federal Government of Somalia and the African Union Mission to Somalia (AMISOM). Al-Shabaab has been designated as a terrorist organization by Australia, Canada, the United Arab Emirates, the United Kingdom and the United States.

In early August 2011, the Transitional Federal Government troops and their AMISOM allies managed to capture all of Mogadishu from the Al-Shabaab militants. The group has also been suspected of having links with Al-Qaeda in Islamic Maghreb and Boko Haram. It attracted some members from western countries, including Samantha Lewthwaite and Abu Mansoor Al-Amriki.

In August 2014, the Somali government-led Operation Indian Ocean was launched to clean up the remaining insurgent-held pockets in the countryside. On 1 September 2014, a U.S. drone strike carried out as part of the broader mission killed Al-Shabaab leader Ahmed Abdi Godane also known as Mukhtar Abu Zubair. U.S. authorities hailed the raid as a major symbolic and operational loss for al-Shabaab. The group remains nonetheless strong and active, and has been responsible for exceptionally deadly terrorist attacks such as the Westgate shopping mall attack and the 14 October Mogadishu bombings.

The named leader of the group is Umar.

1. Composition - Best estimates place the total number of al-Shabaab fighters at between 7,000 to 9,000. Estimates of the number of fighters who've entered Mogadishu are between 250 and 500. While the bulk of the fighters are lightly equipped and motorized, al-Shabaab has amassed a sizable number of CSW generally. Additionally, Umar's capture of Mogadishu has brought with it approximately one battalion of armored, mechanized, and supporting assets.

2. Location - al-Shabaab fighters are amassing in Mogadishu. They are coming primarily from the south-west and west (Kenya). Small numbers of affiliated Al-Qaeda and ISIL fighters are also attempting to reinforce Umar from the north-west.

3. Disposition - The fighters who've already entered Mogadishu are entrenched; and slowly pushing to the south of the city. Groups of fighters are assembling and moving from camps in the desert from their respective locations.

4. Movements - Packets of groups of insurgent fighters are moving primarily via motorized convoys into the OA. Movement within Mogadishu is limited to tactical.

5. Given the success of Al-Shabaad's increased propaganda efforts over the past years, civilians in the city of Mogadishu are generally supportive of al-Shabaab, and many have chosen to stay in the city as a show of solidarity with Islam. Although there are civilians in the city who are there because they support Al-Shabaad, there are also many who have become trapped, and simply cannot leave without being killed or captured. Treat all civilians as friendly, and provide support as needed.

ii. Strategic concept

1. Umar's intention is to leverage the threat of mass destruction to claim Mogadishu as a headquarters for a "intifada", calling upon all Al-Shabaad fighters and their affiliates to amass there in force.

2. It is unknown if Umar will stand his ground in Mogadishu, or flee for safety if threatened.

3. The hostile take-over of Mogadishu has been defined as an act of war and terrorism by the Somali Government and UN Security Council, whereby enabling coalition forces to take aggressive action.

iii. Major belligerent objectives.

1. While Al-Shabaab previously represented the hard-line militant youth movement within the Islamic Courts Union (ICU), it is now described as an extremist splinter group of the ICU. Since the ICU's downfall, however, the distinction between the youth movement and the so-called successor organization to the ICU, the PRM, appears to have been blurred. Al-Shabaab had recently begun encouraging people from across society, including elders, to join their ranks. In February 2012, Fu'ad Mohamed Khalaf Shongole, the chief of awareness raising of al-Shabaab, said that "At this stage of the jihad, fathers and mothers must send their unmarried girls to fight alongside the (male) militants". The addition of elders and young girls marks a change in the movement, which had previously involved only men, particularly young boys.

Their core consisted of veterans who had fought and defeated the secular Mogadishu faction leaders of the Alliance for the Restoration of Peace and Counter-Terrorism (ARPCT) at the Second Battle of Mogadishu. Their origins are not clearly known, but former members say Hizbul Shabaab was founded as early as 2004. The membership of Al-Shabaab also includes various foreign fighters from around the world, according to an Islamic hardliner Mukhtar Robow "Abu Manssor".

In January 2009, Ethiopian forces withdrew from Somalia and Al-Shabaab carried on its fight against former ally and Islamic Courts Union leader, President Sharif Ahmed, who was the head of the Transitional Federal Government. Al-Shabaab saw some success in its campaigns against the weak Transitional Federal Government, capturing Baidoa, the base of the Transitional Federal Parliament, on January 26, 2009, and killing three ministers of the government in a December 3, 2009 suicide bomb attack on a medical school graduation ceremony.

In 2011, according to the head of the U.N.'s counter-piracy division, Colonel John Steed, Al-Shabaab increasingly sought to cooperate with other criminal organizations and pirate gangs in the face of dwindling funds and resources. Steed, however, acknowledged that he had no definite proof of operational ties between the Islamist militants and the pirates. Detained pirates also indicated to UNODC officials that some measure of cooperation on their part with Al-Shabaab militants was necessary, as they have increasingly launched maritime raids from areas in southern Somalia controlled by the insurgent group. Al-Shabaab members have also extorted the pirates, demanding protection money from them and forcing seized pirate gang leaders in Harardhere to hand over 20% of future ransom proceeds.

Al-Shabaab was known as the most prominent terrorist-organization in Somalia which was succeeded to clear away from the bigger cities of the state by the end of 2013.

While Al-Shabaab has been reduced in power and size since the beginning of the Kenya Army's Operation Linda Nchi southern incursion, the group has continued its efforts at recruitment and territorial control. The group maintains training camps in areas near Kismayo in the southern regions of Somalia. One such camp was constructed in Laanta Bur village near Afgooye, which is also where the former K-50 airport is located. On July 11, 2012, Somali federal troops and their AMISOM allies captured the area from the militants.

2. While it seemed like Al-Shabaad's leadership was seeking peaceful coexistence with the Somali Federal Government, like any extremist based organization, it has ultimately succumbed to an idealist fervor for jihad. In the midst of its recent defeats, Umar's vision of a successful re-emergenc is a total take-over of Somalia, finally bringing to fruition the completion of a "third civil-war". It is believed that any attempts at a peaceful settlement will be met with violence.

3. Umar has called for the Somali government to disband and allow an Islamic state to emerge under Al-Shabaad's leadership. In alignment with the GWOT, the Somali government and its allies have called for an immediate military response to neutralize the WMDs in Umar's possession, eliminate all militants in and around Mogadishu, and re-establish order in the city.

iv. Operational and sustainment capabilities of probable belligerent COAs.

With streams of insurgent fighters and supplies entering Mogadishu from the west and north, along with the caches of supplies procured in the city, Umar's forces in the city are well positioned to hold out for some time. The longer they are allowed to hold the city, the more entrenched they will become. Cutting off supply and reinforcement lines to the west and north will undermine Umar's sustainability, and could greatly (adversely) affect the morale of his fighters in the city. Pirates are also providing support through the Port of Mogadishu. Seizing the port will deny Al-Shabaad forces in the city from getting resupplied by allied pirates.

v. Belligerent leadership patterns and idiosyncrasies are unknown, although it is believed Umar will not detonate the nukes. They will however seek all opportunities to ambush and kill westerners, or anyone else attempting to enter Mogadishu or their general proximity.

vi. The U.S. has asserted that al-Shabaab and al-Qaeda pose a global threat. Complaints made against the group include its attacks on aid workers and harsh enforcement of Sharia law.

Shabaab have persecuted Somalia's small Christian minority, sometimes affixing the label on people they suspect of working for Ethiopian intelligence. The group has also desecrated the graves of prominent Sufi Muslims in addition to a Sufi mosque and university, claiming that Sufi practices conflict with their strict interpretation of Islamic law. This has led to confrontations with Sufi organized armed groups who have organized under the banner of Ahlu Sunna Waljama'a.

Through their religious rhetoric Al Shabaab attempts to recruit and radicalize potential candidates, demoralize their enemies, and dominate dialogue in both national and international media. The group usually beheads those who have embraced Christianity or Western ideals. Militants have begun placing beheaded corpses next to bibles and crucifixes in order to intimidate local populations.

vii. The COG for Al-Shabaab at this time is Modadishu. The main source of power is their hold on the two captured nuclear warheads (WMDs). Their greatest weakness is their low numbers, lack of resources, lack of formal command and control, and lack of training.

Reference the intelligence or information operations annex for more detailed information.

c. Friendly Forces. The friendly or neutral forces, or entities, not assigned that may directly affect the command and their centers of gravity include the Somali National Security Forces [BLUFOR] whose current COG is the Jazeera region outside of Mogadishu; Kenyan Army [INDFOR] whose COG in "El Wak" along the central Kenyan / Somali border, and Ethiopian Army [INDFOR] whose COG in "Mustahil" along the central Ethiopian / Somali border.

i. The intent of US-AFRICOM and subordinate echelons is to neutralize the WMDs, eliminate Umar, and restore law and order in Mogadishu. The intent of US-JSOC is to ensure that FOS Jazeerah is protected, and assist in the overall execution of the campaign. The intent of both Kenyan and Ethiopian Armies is to block flows of fighters and supplies into Somalia, and contain the threat posed by Umar and the incident to Somalia.

ii. UN and other multinational organizations, including NGOs, PVOs, UNHCR, and all other actors of a similar nature have withdrawn from the region mostly to Djibouti and Kismayo. They will re-enter the OA to provide post-conflict humanitarian support, once hostilities have ceased. Scattered personnel from AMISOM have been rallying at FOS Jazeera, before heading south.

d. Assumptions. Given estimates that Umar's intent is to leverage the WMDs in his possession and not detonate them, it is a key assumption that swift and decisive action could be successful in achieving the stated mission goals. If quagmired, or pressed hard for a long duration, Umar may however decide that martyrdom is better than being captured or killed, and decide to take everyone with him.

2. MISSION.

Deploy JSOC and 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Cavalry Division (1ABCT-1CAV) in support of SNSF efforts to neutralize the WMDs, retake and stabilize Mogadishu, and clear the OA of all encountered enemy forces.

3. OPERATIONS.

a. Strategic Concept. The 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Cavalry Division will establish a Headquarters at FOS [Classified] in Kismayo along with US-JSOC stationed there. From there, it will deploy it's battalions in blocking positions around Mogadishu, enabling an enhanced combined arms battalion to push into and secure the objective.

i. Command organization.

1ABCT-1CAV will be under the command of CJTF-HOA, US-AFRICOM. It will coordinate efforts through CJTF-HOA with US-JSOC elements in the OA. US-JSOC elements, in concert with CJTF-HOA will coordinate efforts with SNSF.

ii. Area organization.

1. The Operational Area (OA) is Somalia.

    The United States established diplomatic relations with Somalia in 1960, following its constituent parts' independence from British and Italian administration, respectively. A 1969 coup replaced Somalia's elected government with military rule that reflected both ideological and economic dependence on the Soviet Union. Following war with Ethiopia in the 1970s, Somalia began turning toward the West, including the United States, for international support, military equipment, and economic aid. Civil war in the 1980s led to the collapse of Somalia's central government in 1991. Following this, various groupings of Somali factions, sometimes supported by outside forces, sought to control the national territory (or portions thereof) and fought one another.

    From 1992-94, the United States took part in operations that aimed to provide assistance to Somalis. Numerous efforts at mediation and reconciliation were attempted over the years, and a transitional government was established in 2004. In 2012, Somalia completed its political transition with the election of a new federal parliament and speaker, the national constituent assembly's adoption of a provisional constitution, the election of a new president, President Hassan Sheikh Mohamud, and the naming of a new prime minister and cabinet. The United States formally recognized the new government on January 17, 2013.

U.S. foreign policy objectives in Somalia are to promote political and economic stability, prevent the use of Somalia as a haven for international terrorism, and alleviate the humanitarian crisis caused by years of conflict, drought, flooding, and poor governance. The United States is committed to helping Somalia's government strengthen democratic institutions, improve stability and security, and deliver results for the Somali people.

The United States also has welcomed the African Union Mission in Somalia's (AMISOM) success in driving the al-Shabaab terrorist organization out of strategically important population centers, and has underscored the continued U.S. commitment to support AMISOM and the Somali national forces in their responsibility of extending security throughout Somalia. Although the United States never formally severed diplomatic relations with Somalia, the U.S. Embassy in Somalia was closed in 1991. The United States has maintained regular dialogue with Somali authorities and other key stakeholders in Somalia through the U.S. Embassy in Kenya, which also handles consular coverage for Somalia, including to U.S. citizens in the self-declared "Republic of Somaliland."

2. The area of interest (AOI) for Operation Juniper Spear is Mogadishu amd areas surrounding it to the west and north.

   Mogadishu is situated on the Indian Ocean coast of the Horn of Africa in southeastern Somalia. Features of the city include the Hamarwein old town, the Bakaara Market, and Gezira Beach. The Shebelle River (Webiga Shabelle) rises in central Ethiopia and comes within 30 kilometers (19 mi) of the Indian Ocean near Mogadishu before turning southwestward. Usually dry during February and March, the river provides water essential for the cultivation of sugarcane, cotton, and bananas.

   The primary area of concern is the Port of Mogadishu, where Umar and the nuclear devices are believed to be stored. Although estimates indicate it is likely the WMDs have been moved to a more secret and secure location.

   The secondary area of concern is FOB Jazeera, which is being threatened by insurgent forces garrisoned in Mogadishu, and moving into the area from the east.

   The tertiary area of concern are the regions of Somalia to the west and north of Mogadishu, where insurgent fighters have been moving through, and establishing camps in the process. This includes the border with Kenya, where terrorist cells have been assembling forces before moving into Somalia.

iii. The desired end-state of this operation is to:

1. eliminate the threat of Umar, or any other affiliated terrorists, from utilizing the captured nuclear warheads as a WMD; and

2. Assist in stabilizing Mogadishu and returning it to SNSF control.
